Executive Summary

- the main topics are the progress of the customer support assistant, the latest model evaluation results, the backend API work, dashboard progress, deployment readiness, and the issues that are still blocking the beta release. the main thing still under development is the retrieval service integration.
- new evaluation shows that the model was sometimes retrieving two documents with almost identical titles from different departments. Neha will complete the database migration today and retrieval integration tomorrow. 420 support questions collected from the previous three months.
- we're sending too many retrieved chunks to the model. if confidence is low, we can send more. if confidence is low, we can send more.
- the main chat interface is about 90 percent complete. the conversation list, message display, loading state, error state, feedback buttons are implemented. the biggest unresolved question is how much information we show to administrators.
- Vikram: We need stable staging, monitoring, database backups, environment variable validation, rate limiting, and a rollback procedure. we should run an internal beta for at least one week.

Core Decisions

1. the biggest unresolved question is how much information we show to administrators.
2. [09:39:07] Vikram: Agreed.
3. we should report inter-rater agreement if possible.

Identified Risks & Roadblocks

- the main topics are the progress of the customer support assistant, the latest model evaluation results, the dashboard progress, deployment readiness, and the issues that are still blocking the beta release.
- the questions cover billing, account access, password resets, subscription changes, refunds, technical issues and general product information.
